BACKGROUND

Mia graduated last semester near the top of her class. She has built two side projects and interned briefly at a Cebu-based BPO, but the openings she sees online either ask for five years of experience for a junior role or sound nothing like the work she actually did. She has applied to over forty companies in three months and heard back from four.

CORE NEED

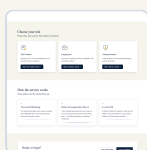

As a Job Seeker, I want to Upload my CV once, see openings that actually fit my skills, and ask an AI advisor to tailor my résumé to a specific posting.

Goals

- › Land a role that uses what she studied, not just any role.
- › Stop tailoring her CV from scratch for every application.
- › Stay in Cebu near family — relocation is a last resort.

Frustrations

- › Generic job boards rank by keyword, not by what she can actually do.
- › Most postings hide salary ranges, wasting her time on misfits.
- › No clear feedback when she gets rejected — just silence.
